Free Seminar - Gas product certification in EU, UK post Brexit and global market access from Australia Date: Wednesday 25 March 2020 (9 - 11 am)

This seminar will equip Australian gas product manufacturers the compliance knowledge to export their products to Europe, UK and other parts of the world. The seminar covers topics such as what is CE marking, where does CE marking apply and how are gas products regulated under CE marking. The seminar will also cover the impacts of gas product regulation in UK post Brexit and the UKCA mark. Finally, we will discuss BSI’s Australian Gas Safety scheme and how it can support you to achieve CE/UKCA marking.

EN 298 Training - Essentials of electronic burner control systems in fuel burning appliances

Date: Thursday 26 March 2020

We have a rare training opportunity for compliance and R&D engineers in Australia delivered by one of most senior experts in the industry. Paul Turner, Vice-Chair of IECQ, will condense the course into one day covering knowledge of EN 298 and IEC 60730-2-5 and their applicability to automatic burner control systems. Following the course attendees will have a greater technical understanding of the two standards, their requirements for the software and hardware of controls, and how they can be used in international conformity assessment system. Attendees will be limited.

Location: BSI Melbourne, Suite 5.02, Level 5, 484 St Kilda Road, Melbourne, VIC 3004

RSVP: By Friday 20 March 2020. Contact Shaun Li: shaun.li@bsigroup.com
